

MILL ON THE CYBINA RIVER

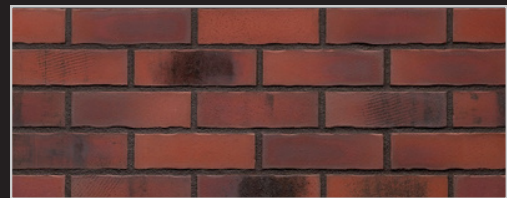

POZNAŃ, POLAND

The Mill on the Cybina River in Poznań, Poland, blends the site's industrial history with contemporary residential design. Located near the mouth of the Cybina River, the property is linked to local legends suggesting Napoleon Bonaparte and his army rested there during their march to Moscow.

Designed by Modern Construction Systems, the residential complex includes 45 units, retail space, and off-street parking. Large windows and thoughtfully planned communal areas provide views of the river and surrounding greenery, strengthening the connection between the architecture and its natural setting.

The building's façade features Old Factory thin brick in King size from King Klinker, selected to reflect the character of 19th-century industrial architecture. Its weathered tones and textured surface connect the development to the site's past while complementing the riverside landscape. Through its materials and sensitive design, the Mill bridges history and modern living.
